

FOURTH EDITION

CONQUEST
AND SURVIVAL
IN COLONIAL
GUATEMALA

A Historical Geography of the Cuchumatán
Highlands, 1500 – 1821

W. GEORGE LOVELL

Contents

Figures ix

Preface xi

Plates xx

I Introduction: Geography and the Past 3

PART ONE: THE REGIONAL SETTING

2 Physical and Human Geography II

PART TWO: CONTACT AND CONQUEST, 1500-1541

3 Land and Life on the Eve of Spanish Conquest 31

4 Conquest and Subjugation by Imperial Spain 53

5 The Native Population at Spanish Contact 75

PART THREE: THE COLONIAL EXPERIENCE, 1541-1821

6 In Pursuit of Order: Congregación and the Administration of Empire 83

7 Economic Demands and Ethnic Relations: Spanish Control of the Native Population 108

8 Working the Land: Landholding Patterns and the Agricultural Economy 133

9	Collapse and Recovery: Demographic Change in the Native Population	157
10	Conclusion: Refuge in the Mountains	187
	Epilogue	191
	Glossary	211
	Appendix: Tables	221
	Bibliography	257
	Index	295

Figures

- 1 The Cuchumatán Highlands of Guatemala: Regional Setting and Principal Settlements 10
- 2 The corregimiento of Totonicapán and Huehuetenango 13
- 3 The partido of Huehuetenango 14
- 4 Archaeological Sites of the Cuchumatán Highlands 37
- 5 The Fortress of Zaculeu 62
- 6 Ecclesiastical Administration of the Cuchumatán Highlands 106
- 7 Proposed Division of Indian Landholding at Sacapulas in the Late Eighteenth Century 151
- 8 The Population of the Cuchumatán Highlands, 1520-1825 167
- 9 Smallpox in the Cuchumatán Highlands, 1780-81 168
- 10 Smallpox Mortality by Family Category, 1780-81 170
- 11 Estimated Mortality by pueblo de indios Caused by the Smallpox Outbreak of 1780-81 171